PHILOSOPHY

- The School believes that Early Years' Education is central to the development of a child. The School seeks to provide high quality, integrated early education and childcare. The School wants each child to experience a broad and balanced curriculum which develops key learning skills that will prepare them for Key Stage 1. The School considers the 'whole' child in terms of their intellectual, social, emotional, physical, spiritual and aesthetic development.
- The School values highly the relationship with parents and carers and work in partnership with them to ensure good transition from setting to setting and to build upon that which is already known about the child. The School sees its provision as a bridge between home and school. The School also encourages parents to become involved in their child's learning and in the life of the School.
- The School seeks to provide a stable and ordered environment where every child matters and the social and emotional needs of each child can be met. The School wants them to feel happy and secure and motivated to learn.
- The School feels it is important to offer a balance of free choice and adult-directed activities. Activities should be accessible to all and should establish solid foundations on which they can build.
- The School offers opportunities to extend a child's learning through play.
- The School believes a child learns more effectively when they are given challenging and interesting experiences, which allow them to explore the environment.
- The School believes it is vital to encourage each child to talk about their experiences and extend their understanding through speaking and listening.

ATTAINMENT AND PROGRESS:

- The School has high expectations of its children and expects that they will make good progress during their time with the School.
- The School gathers information, collects evidence and records progress in the form of workbooks, photographs and individual observations. This information is entered into Tapestry and then used to inform our half termly assessments on Tapestry.

CONSIDERATION OF CHILDREN'S PERSONAL DEVELOPMENT

- The School aims to support the transition between settings, promoting an inclusive ethos and providing opportunities for each child to become a valued member of the group, the School and the local community.
- The School aims to develop the child's independence by providing opportunities to make choices and begin to take responsibility for their actions.
- The School wants each child to develop a strong self-image and self-esteem.
- The School teaches them to look after their belongings and treat the belongings of others with respect.
- the School expects children to be polite and co-operative with adults; the School encourages them to develop positive attitudes to their work, to be sensitive towards the feelings of their peers and others in the community, to concentrate and persist with activities they have chosen for themselves and be motivated to learn.

ADMISSION AND ATTENDANCE ARRANGEMENTS

- Once the children have been offered a place they are normally expected to attend on a full-time basis from the start of the academic year. However, the School is flexible in its approach and a short period of reduced hours will be considered where needed.
- In consultation with parents and in some cases, outside agencies the 'timing' of full-time provision can be deferred.
- Details of the criteria used for school admissions can be found in the School's Admissions Policy.
